"How Music Should be Taught," giving the methods of the tonic sol fa system. This closed the morning session. The afternoon session opened with an address by Miss Williams on "Child Study." Miss Williams is a very entertaining and instructive speaker and thoroughly understands her subject. She gave the methods of the most prominent educators in this country and those in use in the Normal school at Trenton. A. B. Gifford then gave instructions on "How Reading Should be Taught" in the Grammar Grades. This closed the afternoon session. In the evening the teachers held a reception in the parlors of the North club, which were kindly tendered by its members. A very pleasant evening was spent in singing, recitations and instrumental music. Tuesday morning session was opened with prayer by the Rev. Chas. X. Hutchinson of the M. E. Church, of Newton, followed by singing. Prof. Scooby gave an interesting talk on "How to Teach Arithmetic." Miss Hewitt followed this with "Elementary Science." In the afternoon, Frank H. Scooby continued his talk on arithmetic and Miss Hewitt, on elementary science. In the evening, the institute listened to a very able lecture by Dr. Sprague on "Milton as a Teacher." Dr. Sprague is a fine speaker and held the attention of his audience closely through an address of over an hour in length. Thursday the closing day of the institute was opened by singing. The time was then taken up by Dr. Sprague on "How to Write and Correct Compositions," and Dr. Kimmel, of Geological Survey on "The Physiography of New Jersey." At the close of the morning session the institute was adjourned, thus giving the teachers and instructors a chance to spend Thanksgiving at home.

DOUBLE SHOOTING AFFRAY The Pretty Suburban Village of Arlington Heights Has a Sensation. KENNA, N. J., Nov. 27.—Arlington Heights, one of the prettiest residential sections on the east bank of the Passaic river, in the township of Kearney, was the scene of a double shooting affray which will result in the death of one man and a plan to murder another. The shooting took place on the street, near 28th street, New York city, and the possible manning for life of Miss Carrie Plate, whose life Colt made a desperate, but futile effort to end before he fired a bullet into his own head.

Miss Plate, who is 25 years old, is the daughter of the late Henry P. Plate, who was a prominent cork cutter in Iowa. Colt met Miss Plate some years ago, and it is stated, has been a frequent visitor at her home, and it is believed that the shooting was the outcome of a love affair. According to the story told by those who saw the shooting, Colt and Miss Plate alighted from a trolley car, laughing and chatting merrily. They had walked but a short distance in the direction of the girl's home when Colt suddenly drew a revolver and began to fire. Miss Plate tried to escape. The first bullet struck her in the arm and the second in the back. The third went wide of its mark.

Believing that he had killed the girl, Colt then shot himself. It was thought he was dead, and he was allowed to remain on the street in his pouring rain until the arrival of the coroner, who on examination found that the wound he believed to be fatal was not so. His recovery, however, is impossible. Miss Plate is very seriously wounded, but is expected to recover.

The Plate family deny that there was any love affair between Miss Plate and Colt. They claim that her relations with him were strictly of a business nature, as she was employed frequently by him in coloring photographs. They offer no explanation, however, of the shooting.
